Request for Information Relating to Review of Care of Deceased Patient

- 1. Correspondence, emails, or communications between the Trust and the RCP regarding the review of my late husband's care
- 2. Any internal Trust reports, notes, or assessments concerning the RCP review or its findings relating to my late husband's care.

The above information is exempt from release under Section 41 of the FOI Act which relates to confidentiality. This is an absolute exemption.

The duty of confidence is a common law duty that extends beyond the death of an individual. The public interest in disclosure does not override the duty to protect the confidentiality of the information. This means that information about a deceased person, even after their death, is treated with the same level of confidentiality as if they were alive.
