

INFORMATION AND PREPARATION SHEET

ULTRASOUND GENERAL SCAN

A guide to an Ultrasound scan

This information leaflet will explain what an ultrasound scan is and why you have been sent for one. Please read this leaflet carefully. If you have any questions or concerns not answered by this leaflet, please contact the Ultrasound Imaging Department (details at the end of this leaflet).

What is an ultrasound scan?

An ultrasound examination obtains a picture of the inside of the body without the use of x-rays. It involves high frequency sound waves passing through the body and being reflected as echoes from structures inside the body. These echoes are displayed as images on a screen from which a diagnosis can be made. In order to obtain the pictures some gel will be applied to your skin surface and a probe placed in contact with the gel and moved over your abdomen.

Who carries out the imaging?

The ultrasound is carried out by either a sonographer or radiologist, both are trained professionals in this type of scan.

What are the benefits of having an ultrasound exam?

Ultrasound captures images of the organs and tissue that do not show up well on x-rays. You are not exposed to ionising radiation, so ultrasound is safer than x-rays and CT.

What are the risks?

There are no known harmful risks with ultrasound. To reduce the risk of infection by non-sterile ultrasound gel products, remove all residual gel from your skin after the procedure, and wash area when able to do so.

Are there any alternatives?

Your referrer has decided that an ultrasound scan would be the most useful in your case. The examination will help your referrer to assess you more fully and plan any further treatment that might be necessary. If you would like more information about alternative imaging tests, please speak to the doctor or health care professional managing your care.

Is there any preparation required?

No preparation is necessary.

It is essential that you arrive in plenty of time for your appointment

Medication

Please continue to take any prescribed medication as normal. This will not affect your scan.

Asking for your consent

The sonographer/radiologist will ask you if you are happy for the scan to go ahead. This is called verbal consent. If you do not wish to have the scan or are undecided, please tell the sonographer/radiologist. If you wish to have a chaperone present during your scan, please alert a health care professional before the scan begins.

Students/trainees may be present but only with your verbal consent.

Please remember that you can ask the sonographer/radiologist any questions you have at any time before, during or after your scan.

Will I feel any pain?

Ultrasound is a safe and normally painless procedure but if you are tender to touch you may experience a little discomfort.

What happens during an Ultrasound scan?

- It is not necessary to undress for the examination, but you will need to uncover the affected area which may require you to change into a gown.
- You will be asked to lie down on the ultrasound couch
- Some gel will be applied to the affected area
- A small probe will be placed in contact with the gel and moved over the affected area
- You will be asked to change position to allow the area to be looked at from different angles
- The number of staff within the room will be kept to a minimum during your scan
- The examination should take approximately 20 minutes to complete

What happens after your ultrasound exam?

Once the examination is complete you can go home, or if an inpatient, return to your ward. The scan will be reported by the radiologist or sonographer and the report will be sent to your referring doctor or other professional who referred you for the scan.

When will I get the ultrasound exam results?

The results will be sent to the referrer. If the ultrasound was requested by your GP, please contact them within 7 days of your ultrasound exam, or if the ultrasound exam was requested as an outpatient by a medical professional within the hospital, they will contact you with a review appointment. If you are an inpatient, your results will be shared with the referring Doctor within 4-6 hours.

Image sharing

Your images will be electronically stored on the hospital picture archiving system. This data can be accessed throughout the Belfast Health and Social Care Trust and other doctors and health care professionals who are directly involved in your care. The ability to share images and radiological reports will improve the safety and quality of your care by ensuring that the right information is available in the right place at the right time.

In order to improve the medical services we provide we may also use your data as anonymously as possible for internal audit and medical education. If you would prefer that your data is not used for these purposes, please inform a member of staff when you attend for your examination.

If your data is to be used for research, then a separate consent process will be used. You will be asked for your consent, should this be the case.
