

Training Opportunity - Getting People to participate in PPI

This training provides the opportunity to learn how to involve people in designing, planning, reviewing and evaluating services:

Getting People to participate

23 September 2021

9.30am – 11.30pm

via MS Teams

This module will enable you to learn about the key components of effective planning for PPI, explain a variety of methods for participation and will show you how to choose the most appropriate one. It also looks at including those groups, which may be harder to reach. The module is very interactive with plenty of opportunity for discussion with colleagues.

Registration for this module is through the Learning Portal under 'Employee Self Service' on HRPTS – just search for 'PPI' and click on 'Getting People to participate' from the menu of courses.

Here is what some previous participants said:

- Liked the calm methodical approach, very structured
- I found it very interesting and inspirational, found different ways we can involve people – very helpful and especially hard to reach groups
- The practical ideas and resources

We offer a suite of online PPI training for staff, bespoke training for service groups and can assist you in practical ways with this work. Other online modules are Introduction to PPI and The I in COVID (Involving service users during the pandemic). All are available to book through HRPTS. An introductory eLearning module (Engage and Involve) is also available through Learning and Development eLearning (sign in and search for PPI).

If you have not completed 'Introduction to PPI training', we would strongly recommend that you complete the e-learning prior to attending this training.

For further information on PPI see the Engage website or the BHSCT Hub pages here.
